Celebrating Excellence Women’s and Men’s Soccer Teams and Coaches	Chair Mitchell <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Welcomed the men’s and women’s soccer teams and coaches and expressed appreciation and congratulations for their hard work over the past season. Being an athlete and a student is a lot of work, there is a lot of reward, but also there can be sacrifice at times. He acknowledged the importance of education while being an athlete. Introduced Kyle Vierck, Assistant Director for Athletics. Kyle Vierck <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Thanked the Board for their time and support. The teams and coaches wouldn’t be where they’re at without the support of the Board. One of the main goals for student athletes is degree completion and graduation. Each year, the success of the new cohort is even more improved than the last. Athletics has been able to transfer a storage space into the Hawks Athletic Learning Lab for academic planning to work with over 180 student athletes to ensure the finest athletes and the finest students. Women’s Soccer has made it to the NWAACC Tournament five out of the past seven years. This Fall, they advanced to the quarterfinals. Introduced Women’s Soccer Coach, Matt Mills, and Men’s Soccer Coach, Corey Chandler.

Faculty Senate	recipients will be notified in early Spring. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Foundation is in preliminary discussions with the Kadlec Foundation, who has a few extra dollars. Student Success Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs): Critical Thinking	Rich Cummins <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Provided context for the following presentation on SLOs. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ There are five standards that CBC must comply with for NWCCU accreditation. They are: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (1) Mission, Core Themes, and Expectations; (2) Resources and Capacity; (3) Planning and Implementation; (4) Effectiveness and Improvement; and (5) Mission Fulfillment, Adaptation, and Sustainability. ○ Under Standard 4 is assessment at multiple levels beginning at the course level (objectives), then the program level (or department, this assessment is on a five-year loop), and the institutional level (SLOs). ○ The SLOs are: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (1) Think Critically; (2) Reason Quantitatively & Symbolically; (3) Communicate Effectively; (4) Apply Information Tools and Resources; (5) Develop Cultural Awareness; and (6) Master Program Learning Outcomes. ○ The following presentation addresses the toughest SLO, Think Critically. Joe Montgomery <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Provided background on the Teaching & Learning Committee’s (TLC) Study of Critical Thinking and Communications – Student Learning Outcomes <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ In Spring Quarter 2013, the TLC reviewed and revised the prompt used in the 2012 study, revised the rubric to make assessment more reliable, and provided additional training to faculty raters on essay rating and the revised rubrics, to implement in the 2013 study. ○ The revised essay prompt was a response to the “intellectual decline in America” as presented in materials provided. (Materials provided included excerpts, graphs, and charts dealing with the topic.) ○ The essay was given by five instructors and in multiple FYI courses for a total of 265 essays. ○ There were 25 faculty raters. Each essay was rated by two different faculty raters, unless the difference between the two raters was greater than one, then the essay was rated a third time. ○ The rubric consisted of five items rated on a performance scale of 1-4, with 1-3 showing “college level” and 4 showing “below college level”. Of the five items, three were based on Critical Thinking skills two were Communication, they are: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (1) Student responds appropriately to the problem given in the prompt (CT); (2) Student interprets the evidence, identifies patterns in the evidence, and relates the evidence to the assigned purpose (CT); (3) Student recognizes limitations of the provided evidence (CT); (4) Student responds to the assigned problem in an organized an coherent essay

	(Comm); and (5) Student uses effective grammar, syntax, and spelling (Comm). <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Results <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Overall inter-rater reliability was high. “Use correct grammar, word choice, and spelling” had the lowest inter-rater reliability. ○ College Level Performance by Credit Earned shows that students who had earned a greater number of credits were performing at college-level implying that a college education is impactful and worthwhile. ○ Age did not correlate with data regarding credits earned. • Discussion was had between Trustee Jackson, Chair Mitchell, President Cummins and Deborah Meadows, Dean, regarding: Are the students in a learning environment where it is accepted to challenge what is being taught in the classroom? Is there a balanced view of thinking? And, how does academic freedom relate?
Reports Washington State Population & Employment Data 2010 – 2030 ctcLink	President Cummins <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Data presented on the State/regional population trends and projections for community and technical colleges in Washington. • Central and East (Columbia Basin College) is projected to have an 18% growth in total headcount enrollment to 2030 (if 2012-2013 participation rates are maintained), which is the highest growth projected in all Washington Community and Technical Colleges. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ This growth is projected to have the highest headcount growth in the age range, 25-44, meaning CBC will potentially have a higher enrollment in programs such as ABE, WorkFirst, Worker Retraining, etc. • 64% of Washingtonians 18-44 years have less than an associate degree. Central and East (CBC) had the highest percentage with “Less than High School education” and the lowest percentage with “Associate Degree or Higher.” • The WAC President’s Group is discussing a new model for allocation of funds that is based on more than FTEs. Nothing has been determined. President Cummins <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Introduced Eduardo Rodriguez, CTC Link and Organizational Change Management Director at CBC Eduardo Rodriguez <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ctcLink is a redo informational technology infrastructure and logic at Columbia Basin College. • There have been two pilot programs of ctcLink at two Community and Technical Colleges in Washington (Spokane and Tacoma). They are about a year ahead of CBC. • CBC is one of the colleges in the first wave of this transition. • Currently, CBC has been using the HP system that is 30+ years old which leads to limitations for the college and the users. It is also very hard to modify. • The new technology will be through PeopleSoft. And there will be three main databases available: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (1) Campus Solutions (Student services, financial aid); (2) Financial (Business office); and

Waiver Report	(3) Human Resources <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • CBC is working with a consulting agency, Cyber, through the transition process. • Throughout the transition process, there will be open communication throughout the CBC community so they know and understand what is going on and why in the form of newsletters, trainings, updates, etc. • Scheduled implementation date is August 2014 with the final change over to occur in May 2015. • CBC is in the process of preparing the infrastructure, the bandwidth, to be able to support the new system, also departments/areas and the Subject Matter Experts (SMEs) are working to update the information in the current system to smooth the transition as much as possible. • President Cummins - The features of the new system have been determined as a standardized template for all WA CTC. There are a few flourishes that can be manipulated between colleges, but for the most part, the system functions. • Bill Saraceno – Currently, CBC is working on cleaning up of the current system so that the transfer of data is clean. • Trustee Jackson – This is a massive change. It is important to familiarize with Appreciate Inquiry. Also, when introducing a new product, it is important that the initial implementation be flawless and that there is active and responsive customer service during implementation. • Chair Mitchell – Wished Mr. Rodriguez the best of luck in this endeavor. Bill Saraceno <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • At the last meeting, there was an inquiry regarding which were mandatory waivers. They have been high-lighted in the version provided. • CBC treats all incoming waivers as mandatory; CBC has not denied a waiver. • This Fall Quarter is approximately $200,000 less than previous years, with an estimate of $3 Million in waivers at the end of the year, which is in line with the rest of the state.
Discussion K-12 Connections	Chair Mitchell <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • These conversations between CBC and the Tri-Cities K-12 will be on-going and long-term. • Has conducted face-to-face meetings with Richland and Kennewick Superintendents, and provided four primary talking points, information from CBC, and the packet from San Diego School District. The hope is to conduct a more formal meeting with the Pasco Superintendent in the near future. • Chair Mitchell was invited and plans to attend a Richland School Board meeting January 2014 (fourth Tuesday). • Chair Mitchell was invited and plans to attend a Kennewick School Board meeting on Saturday, January 11, 2014.
