2008-2009 CBC Writing Competition Senior Level Entry Category: Poetry

Author: Benjamin Derting

Oh how i love feeling the wind in the day and the stars at night but also the feel of warmth from the dog and doubt of a cat i feel my strength rise during the day as it paints my life but the wind stirs my nerves during the night and the dog protects me from it with her heat oh how i love the star at night oh yes they shine as the cat purrs for the night the sun shines for the day

oh how i love feeling the wind in the day and the stars at night but also the warmth from the dog and the doubt of the cat

my soul is like the wind yes it howls the wind mixes the night and day my soul howls to wake in the morning, but still romances the night

oh how i love feeling the wind in the day and the stars at night but also the warmth from the dog and the doubt of the cat.